Post-Covid: Leave the past behind for a better tomorrow

The Covid-19 pandemic has adversely affected people's health and the global economy. However, as the adage goes, "the secret of change is to focus all of your energy, not on fighting the old, but on building the new."

The pandemic affected everyone, regardless of race, class, caste and physical boundaries, but at the same time, it made humans more humane. The energy that humans used to direct for gaining more power, had to bend its knees to the "most powerful".

Traditional systems had to be moulded due to the pandemic, which resulted in changes in working and learning methods. This gave rise to online schools and the work-from-home environment. Though modern science and inventions helped control the pandemic from spreading, the initial physiological and mental disturbance took many people back to the ancient methods of medication, meditation, healing, and closer to their families. People not only became more aware of their social life and mental and physical health but also became wiser with their financial investments. This helped make people stronger and more resilient. They learned to take a break from the pace at which humankind was galloping. Above all, it united people in creating 'social health' by bringing people together.

Dr. Neha Sharma, Director, Shanti Business School
 "With close to a 20 per cent recovery, the buoyant market is filled with jobs, especially for fresh management graduates. These jobs offer more-than-expected salaries and superior profiles. It's a very good time for freshers to enter the corporate world."

Asif Hirani, Director, Tradebulls Securities
 "The year 2020 marked the start of a new bull cycle in commodities and after a decade of poor performance, commodities look poised to outperform other assets. It's a good time to diversify portfolios through the addition of precious metals."

Kiran Sutaria, Founder & Chairman Citta
 "After the Covid-19 pandemic, organisations around the world have been relying heavily on digitisation to sustain and overcome business challenges. This has led to a huge rise in demand for IT experts and quality developers. Based on the current demand analysis, the demand is expected to double in the coming 10 years."

Asha Vagharia, Founder and owner of 'We Positive Parenting'
 "Steering children towards a new normal can be a challenging journey for parents. At the least, one should start by analysing a routine for themselves and their children, and then plan everyone's days so that one does not feel overwhelmed. Remember, one can only be able to parent well if they are in a mentally good state."

Amrita Mulchandani, MD, Black Traxx
 "People today are health conscious and work out either indoors or outdoors. Amdavadi prefer to hit the gym due to the scorching summer heat. Therefore, we decided to get into the fitness business, where we can give people the best space to work out. Our gym, which has an area of more than 10,000 sq ft, has certified trainers and physiotherapists to guide people on their journey to a healthy lifestyle. Also, as it is important to recover from injuries you get while exercising, we have a dedicated space for our physiotherapists."

Manish Nakrani, Director, Redwop Chemicals
 "The global construction chemicals industry is witnessing an exceptional growth due to an increased awareness of quality construction and technological advancements. The rise in new and highly advanced concrete structures is also placing ever-increasing demands on the industry for high-quality construction materials."

Tulasi Sushra, Student (BBA Hon.) , PDEU, Gandhinagar
 "India, or Bharat, has been a land of learning from ancient times and has attracted aspirants of knowledge from the world over, a phenomenon which continues till today. But the Covid-induced crisis shook the world and all activities, including higher studies abroad, came to a standstill. With normalcy slowly being restored, several students can go to study in many countries. Thus, the new emerging world order is welcoming the confluence of best brains from across the globe."

Start an investment portfolio now as risk-return profile favours buying

This is a great time for investors looking to start a portfolio as, at present, the risk-return profile favours buying.

Those who have invested in the past few months will have to wait for this challenging period to pass. According to our view, this is just a broad correction in the market and the bull market is intact. We predict that 2022 is going to be a tough year because of high inflation and the tightening of monetary policy. However, many good-quality companies have seen valuations coming at reasonable levels and despite the challenging environment, many have got decent numbers. One could look for market leaders and adjust their industry weightage. We would advise investors to go for good and solid companies, that are leaders in their respective fields, have good corporate governance standards and have a promising track record of delivering on financial promises. One can soon look at investing in some value segments.
